

Marketing and Programme Assistant

Salary on application

We at The Marketing Society are passionate about marketing. As the UK's leading network of marketers we're helping over 2500 members become bolder marketing leaders by supporting the development of leading-edge thinking, and promoting the evidence of effective marketing. We do this through our national programme of over 60 world class events, The Marketing Society Awards for Excellence, our journal Market Leader and our extensive online offering.

An exciting opportunity has arisen in our young and ambitious marketing team for a 'Marketing and Programme Assistant'. Your role will be to assist the team across all areas, from our events which will be your key focus and include dinners for 1500 to workshops for 20, to our members and sponsors. Every day will be different, you will be constantly challenged and expected to think on your feet. The right candidate will be a graduate ideally with at least a year's experience, a self starter with a clear desire to achieve a brilliant career in marketing and events.
